Headline:
Dry with sunny spells today. Feeling hot early next week.

Today:
A fine and dry day, with light winds across the region. Long spells of sunshine are possible around lunchtime, but these will become less frequent during the afternoon as patchy cloud moves in for a time. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Tonight:
Patchy low cloud clears during the evening, leaving clear spells for a time before a thin veil of high-level cloud spreads across the region through the early hours. Staying dry. Minimum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Monday:
After a cloudy start in places, skies will gradually brighten, with sunny spells becoming frequent by the afternoon. Generally dry, though the odd shower can't be ruled out. Very warm. Maximum temperature 27 deg C (81 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Early fog patches quickly clearing to sunshine on Tuesday. Sunny again on Wednesday. Cloudier overnight and into Thursday, with showers possible, some heavy. Feeling very warm or hot.
